Supreme Court Holds That the Man Who Uses It First Has Exclusive Right

The judgment of former Circuit Judge Harris, of Lane county, was upheld by the supreme court this morning in the case of H. H. Wood against W. E. Wood, a suit to enjoin the use of a trade name and appellation from Lane county by the defendant. The opinion was written by Chief Justice Moore, affirming the decision of the lower court. This was an action instituted by H. H. Wood who was doing business as the 'Wood Realty Company' and then W. E. Wood opened a real estate office as the W. A. Wood Realty Company. The circuit court decided in favor of the plaintiff and granted the relief asked for.

The other opinions handed down were as follows: Estel la Peterson vs. Emma B. Thompson et al, appellants, suit to foreclose mortgage, opinion by Justice McBride, Circuit Judge Hamilton's judgment for plaintiff affirmed. George C. Held vs. J. B. Kennedy, appellant, appeal from Multnomah county, suit to rescind a contract, opinion by Justice Benson, judgment of Circuit Judge McGinn modified.

State on relation of Mary Eastman vs. A. R. Eastman, appellant, appeal from Columbia county, an appeal from an order adjudging defendant in contempt for failing to pay to the court alimony, appeal dismissed, opinion by Justice McBride.

Paul Hessel, trustee, plaintiff and appellant vs. A. W. Norblad, Edna L. Norblad, C. W. Mullins and Winnifred Mullins, defendants and respondents, appeal from Clatsop county, Judge J. A. Eakin. Affirmed by opinion of Justice Barnett.

State against Agnes Butts, administratrix of the estate of H. D. Winters, deceased, and others, and Will E. Purry, defendant and appellant, appeal from Multnomah county, Judge Robert G. Morrow. Affirmed by opinion of Justice Bean.

Poultry and Egg Circle Has Growing Business

The business of the Salem Poultry and Egg Circle has now assumed such proportions, that hereafter the office of the circle in the Salem Fruit Union building will be open every day, from 10:30 o'clock each morning, in charge of Sherrill Fleming. This has become necessary not on account of the increasing local business, but from the fact that the egg circles at Corvallis, Lebanon and the one to be organized at Dallas, will all ship direct to Salem, and the business of these circles, as well as those to be organized, will be cared for from this point.

The display of the Egg Circle at the state fair, in charge of Professor Lamb, of Corvallis, was of special interest to farmers and to those interested in poultry, and Mr. Fleming and Professor Lamb were busy explaining that the Egg Circle was not a pool, but just an organization by which farmers might combine their shipments, get in touch with the higher priced markets and thereby secure a higher price for their eggs.

German Estimate of French Losses

Berlin, via Amsterdam, Oct. 4.—The French lost 180,000 and the British 60,000 in killed, wounded and prisoners during the first week of the big allied offensive along the western front, according to a report said to have been made to the general staff. The German losses were placed at less than one fifth of the allies. The general staff attributes the temporary success of the allies to surprise attacks and the use of gas. The allies planned to drive the Germans back along the whole front but have succeeded only in penetrating to the second line on a fourteen mile front.

American Troops Maintain Double Guard

Brownsville, Texas, Oct. 4.—American troops maintained a double guard today along the Rio Grande, lest the celebration by the Mexicans of their fiesta, San Francisco day, lead, as in the past to new trouble. Lieutenant John Conditine of Seattle, and three troopers riding along the river yesterday detected five Mexicans in ambush. Dismounting, they attacked the Mexicans who opened in ambush after firing a number of shots at the Americans.

It All Depends on the Hour of Birth, at Least in This Instance.

The following story was told to a number of her studio friends recently by Signe Auen, young Majestic star, who is featured in "A Yankee From the West," a four-part Mutual Master picture produced by Majestic. "I was entering a motion picture playhouse a short time ago when my attention was attracted to a girl and boy, evidently brother and sister, standing near the box office. The ticket seller was questioning her regarding the age of the boy. She insisted that he was under twelve and therefore should be admitted for five cents, as the placard on the box office window announced. "Interested, I moved closer to the box office. "You say he is under twelve?" the ticket man asked. "But I don't believe it. When is his birthday?" "This is his birthday," replied the sister, "but he wasn't born until 10 o'clock at night."

"I looked at my watch. It was exactly 7 o'clock. The two tickets were handed the quick witted girl, and she and her brother passed into the show for 15 cents. "A Yankee From the West" will be shown at the Bligh Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

CLARA MORRIS' GOOD LUCK

New York, Oct. 5.—Fifty thousand dollars—enough to keep her from the poverty she has feared—has been will ed to Clara Morris, the blind and aged actress, by Samuel Harritt, brother of her late husband.

It's easy enough to push the clock ahead, but you can't hurry time any. You can manipulate tobacco, but only time can age it into VELVET.

Velvet Joe After the care and expense of selecting the finest Kentucky Burley tobacco, we won't permit it to lose its distinctive fragrance and flavor and good smoking qualities, by artificially rushing the curing. Every bag, every tin, every humidor of VELVET is filled with tobacco that has been ageing for not less than two years—reaching its full, hearty maturity. Wealthy Grocer Was Murdered at Sea

Santa Monica, Cal., Oct. 5.—Murder was the theory entertained today by detectives investigating the strange death of G. A. McDonald, wealthy retired grocer of Rock Island, Ill., whose nude body was found floating in the sea. It is believed he was killed, robbed and thrown into the water. The body was identified by W. H. Carl, nephew of McDonald. Dr. Carl said McDonald habitually carried large sums of money, and wore a large diamond. Evidence unearthed by the police indicated that the handkerchief McDonald was murdered, stripped the remains and placed the corpse in the sea, believing it would drift ashore days later as that of identified suicide. When it came ashore near the mouth of Santa Monica canyon, the nude body floated on its back, with arms folded over the chest. The fact that a drowned body seldom floats until it has been submerged several days lends color to the belief that McDonald was dead when thrown into the ocean. Ugly bruises were found all over the remains. McDonald had been dead about eight hours. The coast near where the body was discovered is rather wild and unsettled. The coroner began his inquiry this afternoon. Atlanta Journal: The war may be said to be in the stage of the semifinals.

AT THE GRAND TONIGHT.

Mary Pickford in "Rags" Parallels Success in "Dawn of a Tomorrow"

Mary Pickford, called by many "the spirit of the screen," whose every appearance in motion pictures is as much an assurance of entertainment value as Tiffany is of jewelry merit, returns to the Grand today for three days in an appealing dramatization of Edith Barrard Delano's latest novel, "Rags," a title and a character that fit the star as has no other play in which she has ever been presented.

This five-part production of the Paramount Players Film Co. on the Paramount program is a delightful combination of comedy and drama, both of which elements of the story are thoroughly human. After the perfect acting of Mary Pickford, the story deserves the greatest praise.

"Rags" is the daughter of a drunkard, who abuses and mistreats her, but whom she loves with all the ardor of her strong young soul. Her mother, who ever she preferred the worthless man she married, dying after the birth of her daughter, how "Rags," through the invisible influence of destiny, becomes so enamored in the web of fate that she meets the nephew of the man whom her mother rejected, and falls in love with him, though realizing that his social position is too far above hers to ever permit a marriage between them, and how eventually her mother's lover learns of her unhappiness and takes her to his paternal home to live with him, where his nephew again meets her, and in the new surroundings renews his love, are convincingly and sympathetically related in the photoplay.

Realism is another feature that deserves special commendation in this unusual offering. The settings are so complete in every little detail, that audiences will be under the impression they are witnessing a real life-drama occurring in their own homes, or in the homes of close friends. A glance at the cast is sufficient comment on the acting throughout the entire story. Mary Pickford enacts a portrayal that for artistry and naturalness it would be hard to surpass. Joseph Manning, Paul Ferguson and Marshal Neilan provide strong support for the star.
